Dear Prime Minister:

In June 2015, the church parties to the Indian Residential Schools Settlement Agreement responded to the Calls to Action of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada by stating that “Above all, we welcome the Commissioners’ Calls to Action as providing the basis for a wide and transformative conversation among Canadians about the better future we intend to foster, not just for Indigenous peoples, but for all of us who long to live in a society grounded in right relationships and equity.”

We agree with this sentiment, and as leaders of Christian denominations, we write to you to re-affirm our commitment to a just relationship between Indigenous and non-Indigenous peoples in Canada, and to seek your support in that effort.

We acknowledge the initiatives the Government of Canada has taken to date in this journey of reconciliation with Indigenous peoples.

We agree with the TRC Commissioners’ conclusion that the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples is the framework for reconciliation, and we are in the process of implementing it within our own institutions.

We appreciate the Government of Canada’s support of Bill C-262, an act to ensure that the laws of Canada are in harmony with the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples, and hope that the Government’s support will continue at third reading. We are making similar requests of the leaders of the opposition parties.

We believe that building a new relationship and passing Bill C-262 into law are non-partisan issues that warrant the support of all Parliamentarians. Reconciliation calls us not just to address the wrongs of the past, but to address, in an urgent manner, current injustices rooted in colonial structures and institutions. It is time to recognize, in law, Indigenous peoples’ right to self-determination. The passage of Bill C-262 into law is an essential step in the journey of reconciliation.

We hope that the Government of Canada will continue to support Bill C-262.

Rest assured of our continuing prayers.

Yours sincerely,
